TORNADO KILLS MORE THAN SCORE

Hurricane Strikes New Castle, Ind., With Disastrous Effect.

HUNDREDS HOMES WRECKED

Suburb of Cincinnati Also Victim
Of High Wind—More Than
$1,000,000 Damage.

New Castle, Ind., March 11.—More than a score were killed and 150 were injured, some probably fatally, in the tornado which wrecked more than 300 homes in this city late this afternoon. The damage was roughly estimated tonight at $1,000,000, but may even exceed that figure.

The storm swept over the city in a southeasterly direction, demolishing practically two blocks wide and more than ten blocks long. For several hours the city was entirely cut off from communication.

Three Dead, Four May Die, Due To Cincinnati Storm.

Cincinnati, O., March 11.—Three persons are known to have lost their lives, four others are probably fatally injured and a score or more less seriously hurt as the result of a tornado which wrecked about thirty houses in the residential district of Hyde Park, in the eastern section of the city, at 7:25 o'clock tonight.

CENTRAL CITY MAN DIES
HERE; HURT WHILE WORKING

Mose Payne, 40 years old, of Central City, Ky., died shortly after 7 o'clock last Friday night at Sts. Mary and Elizabeth Hospital of injuries suffered Friday morning while at work in a machine shop in that city. Payne was caught in the belt of a machine and his left foot and right arm crushed. He was rushed to Louisville on an Illinois Central train and taken to the hospital, where he was placed on the operating table in an effort to save his life. The body was removed to the undertaking establishment of John Maas & Bro., Floyd street and Broadway, and this morning will be taken back to Central City for burial.—[Courier-Journal.]

HELD FOR KILLING.

Hazard, Ky., March 9.—Green White was arrested yesterday and brought to this city and remanded to jail by Circuit Judge Eversole without bail, to await the action of the grand jury, now in session. He is charged with the killing of Joe Crawford in the lower part of this county. Very little can be learned about the facts of the case, as it seems only the two men were in a room together, and after the report of a pistol persons nearby investigated and found Crawford dead with the bullet hole through his head. It is understood White will plead accidental killing.

CARLISLE—ASHBY.

(Centertown Special.)
Last Wednesday evening Mr. Rolie G. Ashby and Miss Lottyle Pearl Carlisle, both living on Route 1, drove to the residence of our pastor, Rev. J. B. Rayburn, and were quietly married in the presence of only a few intimate friends.

These are two of our most popular young people and their many friends wish them a long, happy and prosperous journey through life.

Surprises of this kind are getting to be quite usual in this community. Wonder who will be the next lucky couple?

HOLBROOK SCHOOL CLOSED.

After one of the most successful terms for several years, the Holbrook school, taught by Mrs. I. S. Mason, closed Friday, March 3.

Despite the weather, the patrons came in about noon and delighted the teacher with one of those bountiful spread luncheons that would satisfy the taste of the most fastidious.

The literary class rendered quite an interesting program which was enjoyed by all, after which Mrs. Mason spoke interestingly on several of the vital educational issues of the day, which was greatly added to by spirited talks by several of the patrons.

There were thirty-seven visitors present.

GOOD ROADS.

Most of our roads will be dirt for a long time, but they need not be muddy nor dusty. How can these things be true?

1. By dragging the road.
2. Opening the drains and ditches.
3. Drag the road again.
4. Run water off the road instead of on to it.
5. Use the split-log or some other drag.
6. Keep out of ruts and use wide tires.
7. Drag some more and every time it rains from your farm to the next home towards your town.
8. Begin now, as many others are doing, and you will get the largest benefit.

MISS MABREY DIES.

(Centertown Special.)

March 12.—Miss Bertha Mabrey, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. H. B. Mabrey, Route 1, who has been ill for the last few months of tuberculosis, died last Friday morning. The funeral services were conducted by Rev. J. A. Bennett at West Point Baptist church Saturday afternoon in the presence of many sorrowing relatives and friends.

Miss Bertha was a bright young girl just entering womanhood, loved by all her schoolmates and friends.

GOOD POULTRY RECORD.

Mrs. Frank Land, of Garrard county, comes forward with a good record which she made with her poultry in the year 1916. During the year she sold 1,130 dozen eggs, that realized the net sum of $312.40, and other produce sold by her that year netted her $225.55 or a total from all sold of $537.95. At the beginning of this year she sold off her old hens for a net sum of $117.58 and still has on hand a nice young flock of poultry with which she hopes to eclipse her record of 1916.—[Bardstov Standard.]

REV. CECIL STEVENS

Preached Excellent Sermons At Baptist Church Sunday.

The people of Hartford had the pleasure and privilege of hearing three excellent sermons at the Baptist church Sunday morning, at 3 o'clock in the afternoon, and 7:30 o'clock in the evening.

These sermons were delivered by Rev. Cecil Stevens, a former Hartford boy, and crowded houses greeted him at all three services.

In the afternoon at 2:30 o'clock he administered the ordinance of baptism to twenty-eight, and one at the evening service.

Rev. Stevens, besides holding an important charge near Louisville, is on the editorial staff of the Western Recorder.

3—CASES MEASLES—3

One can hold the championship in many ways, and it doesn't matter in what way it is held, if one can boast of something no one else can, he can claim the championship in that line. So we believe Mr. T. S. Boswell, of Narrows, can lay claim to championship in the line of measles, as he has eight cases at his house—his wife and seven children.

MISS LAWLESS DEAD.

Miss Mattie Lawless, daughter of Dr. Lawless, of Narrows, died Saturday of a complication of diseases. Her remains were buried Monday in the Petty burying ground.

BOYS OF CO. H. HOME AT LAST

Hartford Company Arrives Monday Night—Boys All Look "No Worse For the Wear."

Company H, Third Kentucky Infantry, arrived in Hartford Monday night from Louisville, where they have been undergoing the mustering out process for about a week.

After spending something like nine months on the border, enduring the hardships of military life, under a southern sun, the boys all look "hale and hearty," but the general opinion is that they have all had enough of the border and Mexico, and are awfully glad to get back to Ohio county again.

The Third regiment of which Co. H was a unit, established an enviable record of which any State might be proud.

SEVEN MULES DIE FROM UNKNOWN MALADY

Seven three-year-old mules belonging to Walker Keith, south of this city, have died within the past few days from some unknown malady. It is supposed however, that they were poisoned by something they ate. Dr. C. L. Smith, the Elizabethtown veterinarian, was at Mr. Keith's farm yesterday to see a mule that was sick showing the same symptoms as the others that had died, and said that nothing could be done for the animal. He blamed the feed for poisoning the mules.—[Hodgenville Herald.]

SHOOTS HIMSELF IN HEAD

Arizona Fulton Ends Life Sunday—Used 22-Caliber Rifle.

Mr. Arizona Fulton, aged between 30 and 40 years, committed suicide Sunday at his home in the Cool Springs neighborhood. The deed was committed with a 22-caliber rifle, and it is supposed that he propped the gun against something to pull the trigger as there were powder burns on his forehead.

Mr. Fulton had been saying since Friday that he "would not be here long." He lived alone on the Lincoln Bryan farm, and was thought to be insane.

He leaves two half-brothers, Joe and Adam Fulton, and three sisters, Mesdames Herman Davenport, J. W. Shultz, Columbus Kitchen, and one half-sister, Mrs. Harry Swaid.

His remains were buried in the Fulton burying ground Monday.

CORN SELLING HIGH.

Like all other farm products corn has been selling at higher prices this winter than have been known by the present generation. Yesterday about 200 bushels of corn were sold at the sale at the farm of J. C. Creal, deceased, at prices from $1.08 to $1.10 per bushel. The local mills have bought corn at prices passing the $1.00 mark, and farmers in the county who have been compelled to buy corn to feed stock have paid prices of $1 and over. Last week a farmer on the Rolling Fork sold a thousand bushels to a distillery at $1.05 per bushel.—[Hodgenville Herald.]

ALONZO MINTON DEAD.

Friday morning about 7 o'clock, Mr. Alonzo Minton, who lived on Route 2, Hartford, died of a complication of diseases.

Mr. Minton had been ill for three or four weeks.

He leaves, besides his wife, five children—all girls—two of whom are married and the other three at home.

His remains were laid to rest Sunday in Bethel graveyard.

MOVING BACK TO OHIO.

I. C. Royal, who moved from Ohio county to this county about two years ago and bought a farm in the Bruner district, has disposed of it and has moved back to Fordville, where he also owns a farm.—[Hancock Clarion.]

TESTS FOR OIL MAY BE MADE THIS SPRING

Various oil operators who have secured oil leases in different parts of the county will probably drill several test wells in the most promising territory this spring or summer. The persons who have taken leases made the lease run for one year only, and if tests are to be made, the companies will have to drill this summer. It is highly probable that oil drilling machinery will be brought to the county sometime in April or May and drilling of several test wells begun.—[Hodgenville Herald.]

HUNG JURY

In Case of Ernest Litsey Charged
With Murder of Hayden Curtis.

After all the evidence was in and speeches for the defense by Mr. M. L. Heavrin, and for the Commonwealth by Mr. Claude Smith, the case of Ernest Litsey, charged with the murder of Hayden Curtis, at Rockport, last fall, went to the jury Thursday morning, and that body after deliberating all that day and part of Friday, reported to the Court that they were hopelessly hung. It is said that the jury stood six for acquittal and six for sentence.

The case will come up again at the July term of court.

Litsey pleaded self defense.

The grand jury has returned indictments as follows: Disturbing religious worship 2, using insulting language 1, malicious wounding 1, deserting child 3, seduction under promise of marriage 1, selling liquor to minor 1, furnishing liquor to minor 2, selling liquor without license 1, obtaining property under false pretense 1, breach of the peace 4, drawing deadly weapon on another 1, carrying concealed weapons 2, cutting timber from lands of another 1, shooting on public highway 1, permitting inebriate to drink whiskey on premises 3.

FARM LOAN BANK HEADS ARE CHOSEN

Federal Board Announces Officers and Directors of Louisville Bank.

Washington, D. C.—Officers and directors of the Federal Farm Loan Bank at Louisville were announced by the Secretary of Treasury as follows: Walter Howell, of Union City, Tenn., president and director; J. P. Breaman, of Columbus, Ohio, vice president and director; James B. Davis, of Brazil, Ind., secretary and director; L. B. Clore, of LaPorte, Ind., treasurer and director; H. A. Sommers, of Elizabethtown, Ky., director, and A. C. Dulaney, of Bowling Green, Ky., registrar and attorney.

The long deferred announcement of the personnel of officers and directors of the Louisville bank was no surprise to those members of the Kentucky delegation who remain in Washington. They were informed long ago that politics was to cut no figure in the selection of men for these positions and for that reason no Kentucky member of the Congress offered an indorsement of any ambitious constituent who sought to be appointed to position in connection with the Louisville bank. More than that, no member of delegation took more than passing interest in the prospective appointments.

Walking from Huntington, West Virginia, to California.

Mr. Mieller is walking from Huntington, W. Va., to Sacramento, Cal., and will return via Washington State and Minneapolis, Minn., endeavoring to complete the trip in two years. He is not walking against time or for any record.

Meiller broke the world's record in Lexington Feb. 4 when he walked a mile in 6 minutes and 22 seconds. He was a former professional ball player.

He carries a letter from the Governor of West Virginia to the Governor of California. He left here for Hopkinsville.

In Mexico.

NO DISTURBANCE REPORTED

First Real Election in History of Country, Declare Old Residents.

Mexico City, March 11.—Gen. Venustiano Carranza was to-day elected President of Mexico by what is believed to have been the largest vote ever cast in the republic. Although the voters had the privilege of writing in or declaring any name they desired, Gen. Carranza received all but a few scattering ballots. The estimated vote cast runs all the way from several hundred thousand to a million.

The Presidential election to-day was provided for in articles adopted by the Constitutional Assembly which met at Queretaro. Many of the old residents declare that this was the first real election ever held in the country. Reports from various parts of the republic indicate that there was no disturbance or intimidation.

DRINKS FOR HOUSE

TURNED DOWN

Stranger Stares While Crowd
Lines Up At Bar—Dead
Three Hours.

The piano was playing gay tunes. Men were treating back and forth, giving toasts to health and happiness and following with songs of revelry. For three hours, amidst much jollity, an unknown man sat unresponsive in a chair at the saloon of Ben Sandmann at First and Jefferson streets.

A "live guy" wanted to treat the crowd. "Everybody come and drink with me. I'm buying for the whole house," he announced.

There was instantly a shuffling of feet as regulars and hangers-on took their places before the bar and ordered their favorite beverages.

The "live guy" looked around. There was a man sitting over in the chair that failed to take advantage of his good fellowship. "Ask that bird up, too," he told the bartender.

Nervous at the delay several went forward to make it unanimous. The man sat with eyes wide open apparently taking in the scene. They shook him and found him dead. A physician who was called said life had been extinct for three hours or more.

The man, whose only known name is John, and who said that he was an employe of the Atlas Coal Company, came into the saloon at 8 o'clock. "Give me a drink," he said, putting a dime on the bar. "I have not far to go." He then walked slowly to the chair and sat down.

Acting Coroner Kammerer had the body sent to the morgue of L. D. Bax.—[Louisville Herald.]

ELLA MONROE ON TRIAL

Selection Of a Jury Is Begun in the Hardin Circuit Court.

Elizabethtown, Ky.—The trial of Ella Monroe for the murder of Eva Gregory in this county, a year ago, was called in the Hardin Circuit Court Wednesday.

Rapid progress was made in the selection of a jury, and out of the first twenty-one names eight were accepted.

The killing took place on a country road near Solway, March 21, 1916, and only circumstantial evidence tends to connect the Monroe girl with the crime. She protests her innocence, but has never taken the witness stand to give her version of the affair.

Jealousy is the motive which inspired the killing, according to the theory of the prosecution. Letters from Clarence Quiggins, of Abingdon, Ill., formerly of Solway, who had paid attention to both the girls, figure prominently in the chain of circumstances.

JOHN BARLEYCORN KNOCKED
GROGGY BY THIS BILL

An editorial in the current Farm and Fireside says:

"In deciding the Webb-Kenyon law to be constitutional, the U. S. Supreme Court has given the liquor interests a staggering blow from which they can scarcely hope to recover. Already prohibition forces are pressing their advantage and, with rather conclusive reasoning, are predicting a dry United States within the next ten years.

"The Webb-Kenyon law, which for the last fourteen years has been violently assailed by the best legal talent of the 'wets,' provides that no liquor shall be shipped into a State in violation of the law of that State. This does not necessarily prevent shipments of liquor from 'wet' States into so-called 'dry' States except in a few cases. For there are many degrees of dryness varying from 'bone dry,' as in West Virginia, Arizona and Oregon, to more or less dampness, as in most of the other 'dry' States, also the District of Columbia, which permit specified amounts of liquor to be shipped in for private use."

HOW ADVERTISEMENTS PAY.

"No advertiser expects every reader, or even a tenth of the readers, to answer directly the ad," says Farm and Fireside, the national farm paper published in Springfield, Ohio. "He is satisfied if the reader simply gives his advertising message consideration and remembers part of it so that in the future when the reader wants the particular article advertised he will know what brand to ask for and where to get it. In other words, the chief thing the advertiser hopes to get is good will, because business experience shows that people eventually patronize concerns for which they have a friendly feeling.

"If the advertisement is in a paper toward which he feels kindly, the advertisements in it are introduced to him, you might say, by a friend. That is about all there is to the whole matter. The editors try to deserve your friendship by helping you in your business and by entertaining you. The advertisers ask for your friendship because they know you will buy your necessities and luxuries from concerns you like, or which are well recommended to you."

FALLING TOMBSTONE
REOPENS CASKETS

A heavy stone, loosened by the weather from the roof of a vault in the cemetery at Seventeenth and Jefferson streets, fell into the depths of the tomb, crushing the caskets. The stone, ten inches thick, broke in two pieces.

A time-worn inscription on the face told the many persons who visited the scene that the two larger caskets contained the remains of Mr. and Mrs. Richard W. Gandy, and the smaller that of their child. The father died in 1872, the mother in 1891, and the child in 1848.

As far as is known, not even distant kin remain to be grieved by the unusual accident. The caskets bore evidence of having been tampered with. Police were on hand to see that no further damage is done.—[Louisville Herald.]

RATS HOLD UP CAT.

Alfred James, of Cynwyd, believes there must have been something in that story about a convention of rats once deciding to "bell the cat." He is certain he stumbled on a rat convention that was just about ready to put the question today.

James went into his stable to feed his horse. He opened the feed box. The sight that met his eyes, he says, is one he will never forget. James has a large, fat, lazy black cat. Of course the cat's name is Thomas—in this case Thomas Atkins, although Thomas is no fighter—and James saw his cat Thomas resting on the oats in the grain box. Seated on Thomas' back was a large rat, almost if not quite as large as Thomas, and surrounding Thomas was a circle of five or six other rats.

"The rats appeared to be having a good time," James said. "Thomas did not appear to be having a good time at all. Thomas seemed to be scared within an inch of his ninth life.—[Bala (Penn.) Cor. Philadelphia Record.]

ONE DISLOYAL SOLDIER
ON BORDERGerman Subject Says Ten Million German Against Government.

Paul L. Scharenberg, a member of the First Minnesota Infantry, and a native of Germany, has been given a term of 5 years imprisonment for furnishing military information to Germany. A letter addressed to relatives in Germany asserting that ten million Germans in this country were ready to rise up against the government in the event of war with Germany, was intercepted by British authorities and turned over to Washington officials, according to statements by the officers.

Earl D. Luce, commanding the regiment, and Captain P. L. McClay, regiment adjutant, in confirming the story of Scharenberg's activities declared that he had predicted in his letter that President Wilson "would be soon put out of the way" and had stated that the 200,000 troops on the border would not stand up if put against an efficient force.

GIANT EAGLE KILLS COLT

A giant eagle pounced down on a sheep near McDowell, Highland county, yesterday and buried its talons in the animal's back. The sheep saved its life by running into a thicket. The bird next attacked a colt, sinking its claws into the colt's side. The colt ran, but finally fell dead from exhaustion and loss of blood. A negro gave battle to the eagle, but it escaped him. The bird finally was caught in a trap.

It measures from tip to tip of its wings a little more than seven feet. W. M. McNulty, a cattle man, bought the bird and will have it stuffed and put it on exhibition at the stock yards in Baltimore, where Mr. McNulty is a weekly visitor.—[Harrisburg (Va.) Cor. Baltimore Sun.]

LONELIEST SPOT ON EARTH.

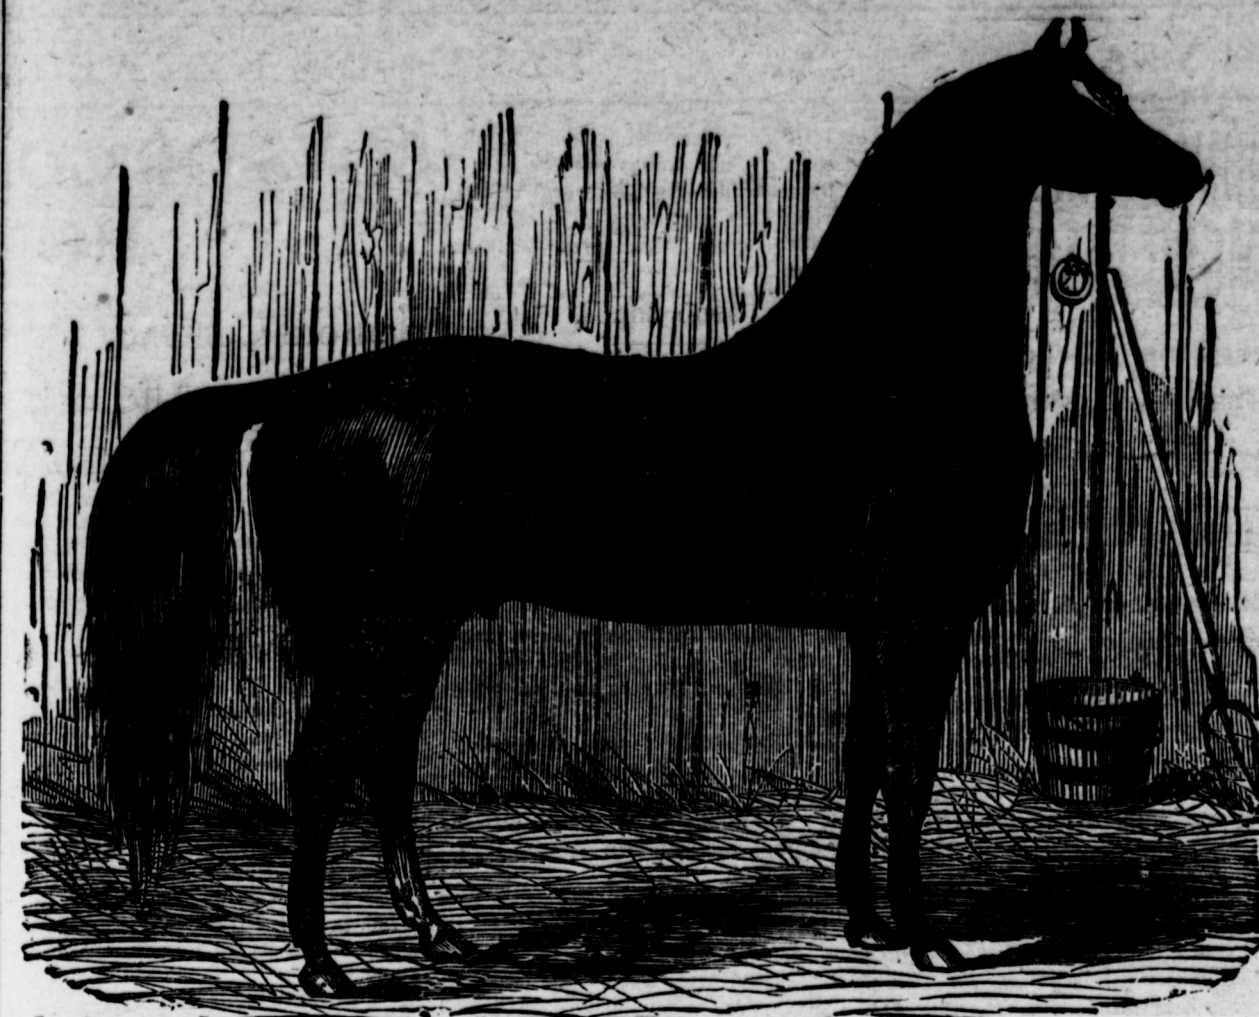

It was thought that when, after Waterloo, Napoleon was sent to St. Helena, he had been assigned to the loneliest spot on earth. As a matter of fact, St. Helena is 1,000 miles nearer a continent than is Tristan d'Acunra. Many hundreds of miles of ocean lie between this island and its nearest neighbor. Tristan d'Acunra, in brief, is a tiny oasis in a boundless wilderness of waters proceeding from it in which direction one will.

It is a rocky and cliffy island with a solitary mountain 1,000 feet high rearing itself from the midst. Yet, on this lonely speck of rock and earth there lives a community that seems to be quite happy in its isolation from all the rest of the world. They are farmers, cattle raisers and shepherds. In the valleys of the island are fertile fields where potatoes mainly are grown. The food of the people consists for the most part of beef, mutton, cows, potatoes and fish.—[Los Angeles Times.]

Shake Off That Grip

When Spring comes, with its changeable weather and your exposure, it is best to clear away all the symptoms left after an attack of grip. That evil disease leaves you weakened, and when its victim attempts to "do his bit" he exposes himself to the risk of a second attack, for which he is less prepared, and which may have graver consequences.

There's Danger in Delay

April and May are pneumonia months. In this time a weakened system is a constant source of danger, for the pneumonia and grip infections are in the air, and after a long winter the body is so clogged with waste it cannot resist them. Fortify the health, remove the catarrh, and improve the digestion.

For Quick Relief PERUNA

This reliable tonic is recommended, to remove the waste from the body, counteract the catarrhal poisons and allay the inflammation that is catarrh, restore the regular appetite and tone up the entire system to resist disease. A well man is safe.

As a tonic after grip it has won many commendations, while its effectiveness in catarrhal conditions is unquestioned. Take no chances—Take Peruna.

Peruna Tablets are always ready to take. You may carry a box with you and ward off colds and chill. The liquid medicine in your home is a great safeguard. Protect your family.

REGARDING TAX REFORM

(By a Layman)

It is gratifying to read your thoughtful and timely editorials on "Tax Reform," not only because they are well written, but because the question is of the gravest public concern. For, of all the powers granted by the people, the Taxing Power opens widest the door to extravagance and corruption, and strikes deepest into the heart of human energies by levying upon the reward of effort.

All whose opinions have impressed the world as worth while, have with singular unanimity, agreed that individual rights in property is the only basis upon which the organization of society can endure, because the security of these rights, depending so entirely upon peace, order and justice, makes them the staunchest ally or organization, hence whatever touches these main-springs of enterprise, industry, and thrift should command the widest publicity, the fullest discussion, the closest scrutiny and the maturest judgment.

"Let him" (Mr. Madison) thundered Patrick Henry, "candidly tell me where and when did freedom exist, when the sword and the purse were given up from the people. Unless a miracle in human affairs shall interpose, no nation ever did or ever can retain its liberties after the loss of these." Again he says, "If we depart one iota from the compact, we give a dangerous precedent which may imperceptibly and gradually introduce the most destructive encroachments on human rights."

It was not by revolution but by a relentless grip on the purse-strings that the people of England tamed their despots and made of them the mildest of monarchs.

Fully realizing the grave dangers in delegating these powers, the authors of our system, employed to the utmost their genius and wisdom in surrounding them with every possible safeguard. A tax must be by consent of the taxed, it must be general, equitable and, above all, for public purposes only. The authority can be delegated only to agents who are fresh and direct from and responsible to the people and they cannot be vested with the authority to redelegate it.

But in the nature of the plan, which presupposes the will and ability of the people to guard their own interests, much was left to the integrity and discretion of the courts, but with the warning that safety-lies in the strictest construction of these grants, and, at the same time, charging upon the private citizen the profound duty of watching over all with a jealous, and eternal vigilance, nay, with the untiring love and devotion of the mother pelican watching over her only offspring—sleeping with one eye open and feeding it her own blood.

Now, Mr. Skipper, let's take our bearings and see if you have been living up to the high standard so confidently set you, and upon which all good government depends. Absorbed in private interests, haven't you failed to "look beyond your fire-side" and abandoned to the grafter and incompetent the far more important affairs of State, left it to them to crowd the pilot house and crow's nest and run the old Ship of State with an abandon that makes her cordage wall, her timbers groan—and Liberty scream?

After all this civic neglect, aren't you still relying upon our old defunct Bill of Rights to protect you and yours, still hugging that antiquated conceit that the property now in your possession is all absolutely your very own? Well, old Rip VanWinkle, you'd better wake up and look 'round, for all those little comfortable fool notions are only the fatuous and illusory stuff of which the most whimsical dreams are made, and equally fantastic is the notion that some where about your cosmos still remain some tags and tatters of those precious rights and liberties bequeathed by heroic fathers, not menaced, abridged or abrogated.

Thanks to the sweeping and destructive range now given these instruments of oppression, General Welfare, Eminent Domain, Police Power and the Taxing Power, you have been stripped, while you slept of the last shred worth fighting for.

It is a curious fact that no republic ever lasted five hundred years.

It seems a fate that nations like men shall have their infaney, maturity and then the apathy of old age. The spirit of liberty had died in Rome before the every ready, waiting and watching usurper came. Can it be this generation is playing the "Fool" in the last act of an awful tragedy?

Shot with Puritanism, Paternalism and Socialism as full of holes as that beautiful and historic Cathedral at Rheims, how much longer may our temple stand without costly repairs, it indeed it can be repaired at all, for again referring to Patrick Henry, "If you ever recur to another change, you may bid adieu forever to representative government."

Already we are drifting away from constitutional government and headed for an unnatural cross between an aristocracy of Judges and a hierarchy of insufferable Cranks.

"The siren song of ambition," says Burke, "charms ears one would have thought were not attuned to such music."

No maxim in jurisprudence or political science is terser or truer than that of Chief Justice Taney—"THE POWER TO TAX IS THE POWER TO DESTROY," but it remained, for the usurpations of our day to so construe it as to mean that when once the people delegate this power, it is absolute and unconditional, and carries with it both the moral and constitutional right to destroy, as is so forcibly illustrated, for instance, in certain cases of public ditches and sidewalks—literally taxed out of house and home, utterly destroyed, cases in which not an item of the contract was complied with, the grade, and width of walk, the thickness of layers, the material and proportion of mixture, all ignored, yet the victim is forced to pay an exorbitant price or this worthless public improvement in a country supposed to have some modicum of respect for property rights—usurpation rampant.

But it was not so much the tax itself the odious Stamp Act imposed that the Colonies so nobly resisted. It was the intolerable abuse of the taxing power, a tax without the consent of the taxed, taxation without representation.

What security have you when an irresponsible commission, the creature of a Governor or legislature with a craze for creating new offices, a commission whom you can not call to book yet vested with the taxing power, the most dangerous of all powers, sitting in Frankfort, feasting at your expense like pampered prelates, who know not care no more about the value of your taxable property or your share of public expenses, than a weather-beaten wooden Indian knows why, when Zoroaster's Monotheism clashed with Dualism in Babylon, as in physics, the forms of both were changed?

I say, if they can sit there and actually raise your taxes, not by raising the rate but by raising the amount of your assessment, whether by counties or precincts, under the pretense of equalizing them, they are to all intents and purposes, exercising the taxing power, and in spite of their euphonious title, should be as odious to us as the Stamp Act was to the Colonies.

Pray what check have the people upon a rampant legislature shot with the cant of unspeakable Harvies and things, in an orgy of crazy legislation, with its hands up to its elbows in the pork barrel, hard pressed for more public funds to squander, yet not daring to raise the tax rate if it can redelegate the taxing power to a pliant commission and have only to give it a sinister wink to wring millions from the people?

If ever you surrender a system that brings a fair and competent judge of property to your door where you may have a hearing, a day in court, a judge familiar with local values and conditions with whom you may agree upon a fair valuation of your taxable property and, in case of disagreement, provides for home arbitration the decisions of which cannot be reviewed or set aside, you let slip a vital principle of Home Rule and Self Government—that tips the sensitive beam against Democracy in favor of centralized power, thus delivering to our free institutions another shot as true of aim and far more costly than those hurled through the priceless, mural paintings of that triumph of art now crumbling amid the ruins of devastated Rheims.

FOOD RIOTS AS IT PERTAINS TO THE POULTRY MARKET

The food riots in the different cities has had its telling effect on several different commodities. Chicago the wholesale price was reduced from $3.05 per bushel to $2.60 on Irish potatoes; also reduced the price on onions. Above is not only true in Chicago, but in all other large cities. The food riot has demoralized the poultry market in New York City, which market is the ruling market of our country on poultry as well as other commodities. Whatever is true of the market conditions in New York City is true in all other cities, as New York gets all surplus from all the large cities. When you take into consideration the great mass of people that exist in the metropolis city you can very easily conceive why she is the index on markets. Her population is almost five millions. Week before last for four days there was not a chicken sold from the poultry cars. Slaughtering houses were practically closed. The market was reduced from 23c to 24c, on fowls to 19½c to 20c. This was a four cent break. Such breaks have lost shippers thousands of dollars. On one car they suffered heavy loss. What about the shipper who had from 5 to 10 cars on such a break? One car on such a break as above mentioned meant about $1,000 loss. The shipper who had 10 cars suffered a loss of $10,000. The writer has talked to a great many poultry shippers and they say that the market conditions were never worse. They say that they look for the above extreme market—24c—to be paid to the shipper again, in New York, but we have to assume to great a risk. We know not when New York may have another food riot. These heavy breaks are causing shippers to lose confidence in the markets, the extreme high prices paid for poultry on this end of the line. The market in New York was never known to be higher. These conditions being true in the face of food riots has made it a very dangerous proposition for shippers of all food supplies. More especially poultry—as poultry is something that requires a great deal of attention. It is a very expensive commodity to carry over. Feed stuff was never known to be higher. You are not only out your feed in carrying over poultry, but poultry is perishable stock. The fatality is heavy as well as other shrinkage, and additional expense of paying a man and board in holding poultry over. Often it takes two or three weeks for markets to recover from big breaks. In this case you would have a decided reaction of market to recover cost of shipment.

WEATHER FORECASTS FOR FARMERS

Letters Relative To Louisville Weather Bureau Giving Weather Forecasts For Ohio County Farmers.

Louisville, Ky., March 6, 1917.
Mr. W. T. Austin, Beaver Dam, Ky., Dear Sir:—We have been authorized to telephone the forecasts to the Cumberland exchange at Beaver Dam, beginning March 7, 1917; and, as you suggested in your letter of February 27th, I am expecting you to bring the managers of the two telephone companies together and arrange for the transfer of the forecast to the Mutual. It is understood by this office that the exchanges of both companies at Beaver Dam will give the forecasts and warnings to their local exchanges throughout Ohio county free of charge, where the forecasts are to be available to all subscribers who call for them. If used properly these forecasts and warnings should be an important asset for the telephone companies.

Will you please ascertain and report to me the names of all places outside of Beaver Dam where the Mutual has exchanges, and the number of subscribers to each exchange; also the number of subscribers to the Mutual exchange in Beaver Dam? No doubt you can readily obtain this data from the manager of the Mutual.

Very respectfully,
F. J. WALZ,
Professor in Charge.

Beaver Dam, Ky., March 8, 1917.

Dear John:—I am sending you this letter from Prof. Walz, of Louisville, so you can see how the matter now stands. We will get the forecast here every day from now on. I sent Prof. Walz a Telephone Directory of the Ohio County Mutual to-day. I shall get the Beaver Dam Exchanges (both of them) to send out the forecast today to what exchanges they have physical connection with. You will have to notify all the exchanges in the county and explain to them about the matter, how they are to get the forecasts. Beaver Dam will get it from Louisville about 10 p. m. every day and the forecast will be good and include the day following as well as the day received. The Cumberland folks will give the forecast to all of their patrons. I think all our exchanges should take a special interest in getting their patrons to make use of this forecast as it will help to encourage and stimulate interest in building up the telephone business and help to keep the lines in good running shape. I should think the county papers would notify the public in regard to this arrangement as it is of public interest if you will write them explaining the matter. Everybody in the county can get the forecast every day from their nearest exchange who has a phone, by calling on their exchange for it. I suppose you will have to notify all the exchanges about it.

Respectfully,
W. T. AUSTIN.

IT'S BEST TO LIVE.

There are men who argue that living is high, but they might try dying. A living man gets shaved for 10 cents, but a dead one pays $5 and never kicks. A good Kersey overcoat costs $25, but a wooden one costs $100. A grave-digger will plant potatoes for 20 cents an hour, but for planting you he gets four times as much. A carriage to the theater costs $2, but everyone to the cemetery costs $5. A brewery will fill your hide to bursting for 50 cents, but the embalmer gets $12.50 for the same job. Come to think of it there are lots of things to live for in this world, despite the high prices and contrary weather.—[EX.]

CARGO OF HONEYMOONERS.

A real honeymoon ship, the Hawaii Maru, arrived at Victoria from Japan the other day. There were 60 newly married Japanese couples on board bound for San Francisco, by way of Seattle.

The 60 bridegrooms are part of a delegation of 80 Japanese from San Francisco who went to their former homes on a pleasure tour last fall. Only 20 out of the number failed to persuade some demure, star-eyed Japanese maiden to accompany them to their American homes, and the same 20 were the least happy of all the passengers on board.—[Victoria (B. C.) Cor. Seattle Post-Intelligencer.]

Spring Colds Are Dangerous.

Sudden changes of temperature and underwear bring spring colds with stuffed up head, sore throat and general cold symptoms. A dose of Dr. King's New Discovery is sure relief, this happy combination of antiseptic balsams clears the head, soothes the irritated membranes and what might have been a lingering cold is broken up. Don't stop treatment when relief is first felt as a half cured cold is dangerous. Take Dr. King's New Discovery till your cold is gone.—Advertisement.

105 MOURNERS AT $1 EACH.

Henry Sharpnack selected a coffin, supervised the construction of a mausoleum and painted it himself, and then instructed an undertaker to employ 100 mourners at $1 each when he died. A few days ago 105 mourners followed the body of Sharpnack to his mausoleum and, dry-eyed, each accepted $1 with a "thank you." The mourners were supplied by the City Free Employment Bureau and charitable organizations. They were designated in some instances by Seattle ministers. Among the mourners were three widows with their children.—[Seattle Cor. New York World.]

THE "DRY" WAVE.

What some newspapers and speakers have referred to as "a temporary wave" of prohibition or "fanaticism" seems to be still expanding and increasing in velocity, notwithstanding the prediction made after each "dry" victory that reaction would surely soon follow. The movement has the active support of some of the brainiest and most influential men and women of this and other nations, and recent reports show great and significant gains for the cause of prohibition. In fact, it looks like the sentiment in favor of "digging the liquor business up by the roots" is sweeping over much important territory, and "bone dry" is the latest cry of the organized forces that are striking sledge-hammer blows in that direction.

Oregon has gone "bone dry." The Governor of Tennessee has signed a bill and will enforce the law making that State "bone dry." Alaska is to become "bone dry" by act of Congress. The Senate bill to this effect passed the House without even a roll-call. After April 2, 1918, Indiana will become "bone dry" under a bill that passed both branches of the legislature and was signed by the Governor. The Illinois Senate has passed a bill providing for a referendum vote on State-wide prohibition in 1918. The bill to make the District of Columbia "dry" passed both Houses and was signed by the President.

That the next General Assembly will submit the State-wide proposition to the voters of Kentucky there is little doubt and still less doubt than when it is submitted it will carry by a large majority.

The liquor business has been hit hard in Europe as well as in America; and while the war has figured largely in the question there, the enemies of the liquor traffic are systematically organizing to prevent reaction when peace is restored. They will advance the theory, which seems plausible, that if the curtailment or elimination of liquor adds to the efficiency of the army and navy the same thing will make the citizens more proficient in mechanical, commercial and professional lines to say nothing of the improvement in morals.

Whether they personally favor prohibition or not, there is one phase of the question to which all good citizens, we believe, will subscribe, and that is, when a community, county, State, or nation is ordered "dry" whether by act of a law-making body or by the votes of the people, it should be sure enough "dry." No half-way enactments or half-hearted enforcements will any longer satisfy when prohibition is ordered. To accomplish this the most important thing is to elect officers that will enforce the law regardless of resulting consequences. Whenever the citizens demand of executive officers a full performance of their duties in respect to the liquor traffic, and then hold them accountable for any failure, the "bootlegger" and "blind tiger" will be banished from the community.

SUFFRAGETISM.

The "Votes for Women" movement which was so long looked upon as a fad of some old maids and childless wives has advanced surprisingly in the last few years. In fact, it is now supported by a systematic and thorough organization in the United States through which victory after victory is won with increasing rapidity.

Under the laws of eleven States full suffrage is granted to the women, in four others they may vote for Presidential electors, and in still many more they are allowed to vote in contests for certain offices and upon some particular questions as is the case in Kentucky. At the last election they participated in the selection of ninety-one of the electors distributed as follows: Arizona 3, California 13, Colorado 6, Idaho 4, Illinois 29, Kansas 10, Montana 4, Nevada 3, Oregon 5, Utah 4, Washington 7 and Wyoming 2. Since the election three States, to wit, Indiana, North Dakota and Ohio, with an aggregate of 44 electoral votes, have extended the ballot to women in Presidential elections; so that, now they have a voice in the selection of 135 members of the Electoral College.

The equal rights advocates are working with a zeal surpassed perhaps only by that of the prohibitionists; and, judging from recent developments and present appearances, it is only a question of a few years when the elective franchise may be exercised in most if not all the States. However, this measure of success has not been achieved without having mistakes, hindrances and drawbacks to encounter and overcome. Some enthusiastic devotees allow their zeal to overcome their better judgment and they are prompted to engage in practices and resort to tactics detrimental to the cause they seek to advance. Speaking more specifically, it seems to us that in keeping pickets continuously stationed at the White House gates a very unwise policy is being pursued and no good will be accomplished thereby. Especially does it appear indiscreet just at this time when the President has so many grave National and international problems to solve, and when true patriotism demands that all citizens—men and women—should refrain from any engagements that are calculated to embarrass or harass him in the least. While President Wilson takes this form of heckling good-naturedly and treats the sentinels with courtesy, the spectacle is nauseating to the public, including many who are really in sympathy with the suffragettes.

In justice to the National Woman's Suffrage Association we are glad to be able to state from information given directly by the officials to a representative of The Herald that the Association is not responsible for and does not approve of this picketing program. The real leaders prefer to rest their case on its merits and rely for advancement upon sane arguments and earnest appeals made in an orderly way. This is the intelligent course to pursue and is the surest plan to gain substantial recruits and maintain respect for suffragetism.

An old proverb that suggests that you "get your horse and your wife in your own neighborhood," may be amplified to read, "Buy your dry goods and your groceries within the shadow of your own church steeple or within a stone's throw of your own fireside."—[Cadiz Record.]

In other words buy your goods from the home merchant, keep your money at home and we'll all be happy. But, how in the name of kingdom come are our country friends and others to know that our merchants have the goods they want unless they (the merchants) tell them so through the columns of the local newspapers? The mail order houses are not sparing with the use of printer's ink, and they keep constantly bombarding the very people that should be patronizing local county merchants with their literature, informing them as to what they have and the prices of same. Our people will have to know what local merchants have before they will ever cease patronizing mail order houses. How are you, Mr. Merchant, going to let them know it? Get busy!

In Philadelphia Thursday, thousands of women paraded, in unorganized fashion, the streets in the quarters largely inhabited by those of foreign birth, overturned push carts and upset food displays in a demonstration against the high cost of living.

The Reed amendment, making it a crime to ship liquor into States where its manufacture and sale is prohibited has passed the House by a vote of 321 to 72. Only Presidential disapproval can prevent the "bone dry" measure becoming a law.

We can imagine the feelings of those from the sunny skies of Italy who sell the "banana," when H. C. of L. rioters overturned their push carts in their recent demonstration at Philadelphia.

An enterprising west-end merchant in Louisville is offering one "spud" (Irish potato) with each $1 purchase at his store.

MONEY IN POLAND CHINAS.

Central City, Ky., March 12.
Editor Herald,

Dear Sir:—I notice in The Herald a showing what some of our Ohio county citizens have made with the Duroc hog this year. Now I want to say that I could make a better report on my Duroc's but what I want to tell you is, what I have done this past 12 months with my Poland China hogs is as follows: I started the first of 1916 with three Poland China gilts farrowing respectively:

One March 4th—10 pigs.

Total—28 pigs.

I have sold as follows:

On June 27, sold 6 of the pigs for 34.00
On Dec. 15, 1916, sold 12 of the pigs for 240.00
On Mar. 10, sold 8 of the pigs for 200.00

Total. $484.00

These same three sows have farrowed the second time as follows:

One Dec. 15th—8 pigs.
One Jan. 25th—10 pigs—losing 5.
One Feb. 16th—10 pigs—losing 7—leaving 16 pigs.

I have just refused for the three sows and 16 pigs, $140.

To All Patrons Or Prospective Patrons of Mail Order Houses:

We believe that we are getting more catalogs from Mail Order houses than any of those who read this advertisement are getting, and we probably spend more time in studying them and comparing them than any reader of this advertisement.

After studying their strong points—for they have strong points, and their weak points—for they have weak points, too, this store wants to say to the man who thinks we cannot meet mail-order house offers, TRY US. We want a chance at those orders you send away.

The mail-order house guarantees satisfaction.

SO DO WE.

Our guarantee is just as broad as theirs.

The mail-order house demands cash with order; you know our terms.

The mail-order house must have from a week up in which to fill the order. In other words, you must do without local service. We can fill orders same day as received.

GET THIS ALSO:

We allow you to judge as to whether we give you as good, or better quality, as that offered by the mail order concern. If in your judgment the goods offered by the mail order concern are better than what we have given, just return the merchandise we have furnished and we will do one of two things—you decide which one you want us to do:

FIRST—We will promptly return your money just as cheerfully as we took it; or,

SECOND—We will send to the mail-order house and get you the item without further freight expense on your part.

We have made this offer just as FAIR as we know how to make it.

We want your business. We will not misrepresent value in order to get it.

To the man or lady who says "IT CAN'T BE DONE," we want to ask a favor. It's this: Before you say again we cannot meet the mail-order price, "TRY US."

As said before, we are trying to make the FAIREST offer we know how.

Live Stock And Dairy

PRODUCING GOOD MILK.

Cleanliness and Proper Feeding Main Essentials in Dairying.

Cows must be healthy and kept clean. The barn should be kept clean, well lighted and ventilated. The barnyard should be kept clean and properly drained. Utensils should be thoroughly washed and scalded or steamed and kept in a clean room.

Cows should be fed good wholesome food and pure water.

Milkers and attendants who come in contact with the milk should be healthy and clean.

Cows should not be fed at milking time or immediately before. Dust from feed falls into the milk and contaminates it with germs.

Wipe the udder and side of cow with a damp cloth and milk with clean, dry hands. Use small top milking pail. This helps to keep foreign matter from the milk.

GOOD DAIRY COW—HOLSTEIN TYPE.

Immediately after milking remove the milk to a separate room from the barn to be strained and cooled. Cool the milk to as low a temperature as possible without freezing. Forty or 50 degrees F. retards growth of most germs and particularly those that cause milk to sour quickly.

In summer keep flies out of the barn and milk room. One fly may carry as many as 150,000 germs to the milk. These may be disease germs. Manure should not be allowed to accumulate around the barn. It is a breeding place for flies.

The number of bacteria in milk depends largely upon cleanliness of milking and handling, temperature at which milk is kept and age of milk. Therefore clean milk, quick cooling and prompt delivery are very important factors in producing pure dairy products.

GROWING TURKEYS.

Abundance of Food and Room For Exercise Necessary to Success.

Every precaution should be taken in turkey raising to obtain strong, vigorous stock. Do not imagine that size is the main point of excellence, says a poultry expert. A medium sized gobler weighing about twenty-five pounds will usually render more satisfactory results than an overheavy specimen. In all fowls remember that size is largely influenced by the female, and the color and distinguishing characteristics by the male. The hens should be well matured, weighing not less than fourteen pounds, intelligent and tame, as distinguished from wild and unduly excitable birds, and of pronounced constitutional vigor.

A safe rule for mating is to have a tom for every four to six hens. Good fertility is reported from matings of a male to every twelve females, but we are inclined to think this is unusual. On farms where the flocks are yarded it is customary to keep two cocks for every eight or ten hens and to alternate the males about twice a week, keeping one penned aloof while the other is with the flock. When turkeys are given unlimited range, which is the most successful method of raising them, they naturally divide into flocks. It is said that the real secret of success in rearing turkeys is exercise.

When preparing for a successful hatch of turkey eggs it is almost impossible to take too many precautions. Only when turkey hens on free range steal their nests can the best results be obtained by a policy of noninterference. Even under such circumstances it is usually well to take some precautionary measures. The nest should be found and, if necessary, protected from the weather by a coop that has at one side an opening sufficiently large to allow the turkey hen to enter easily. Picture shows a turkey on a stolen nest.

They must have an abundance of food, and to maintain the necessary health to assimilate large quantities of food they must have an abundance of exercise. This idea is entirely logical. Turkeys are large birds, semiwild by nature, possessed of a roving disposition and fully capable of taking care of themselves. To confine them is to impose a feeling of constraint and worry, over which they never cease to fret. To do well turkeys must have range. Only a few should be attempted in a confined space, and even then they will require painstaking care.

Much of the so called "bad luck" in turkey raising, infertility, soft shelled eggs and impaired vigor, is due to improper feeding. Avoid having the breeding stock too fat. If they have become so during the winter season endeavor to reduce them to medium flesh before the mating season. Quarts are one of the best feeds during the breeding months, with an occasional feeding of wheat, corn, barley and ground bone. Grit, oyster shells and charcoal should be kept within easy reach of the birds at all times and a plentiful supply of fresh drinking water.

AROUND THE FARM.

Packing apples attractively helps to sell them for more money.

Lime-sulphur spray gets peach leaf curl. Apply in fall or winter or any time the leaves are off.

Shrubs that attract birds by their fruit are worth planting around the farm home.

Painting farm implements and vehicles is a good odd job for winter. Of course they are all under cover.

Snow is said to be the poor man's fertilizer, and it is—in the sense that any man who depends on it is bound to be poor.

Systems of drains in land that has been tilled, but that was more or less wet, have usually paid for themselves in four or five years and often in much less time.

FAME IN A FEW WORDS.

Authors Who Are Now Known Only by a Single Work or Passage.

Philip James Bailey wrote "Festus" when he was twenty-three and lived to be eighty-six without adding appreciably to his early laurels. His "Festus" was compared by enthusiastic admirers to the works of Shakespeare and Goethe. No one reads "Festus" now, but its memory survives in one familiar quotation, a one time favorite for use in autograph albums:

We live in deeds, not years; in thoughts, not breaths;
In feelings, not in figures on a dial.
We should count time by heart throbs.
He most lives
Who thinks most, feels the noblest, acts the best.

Bailey is very far from being the only author to live in men's minds by virtue of a single line, stanza or passage. It is a narrow margin by which to escape oblivion, but it serves. True, it is not the writer himself that is remembered, but as long as some spark from his brain still glimmers he is not totally dead. It may be a line from a song. "Meet me by moonlight alone" and "Don't you remember sweet Alice, Ben Bolt?" are repeated as catchwords by thousands who never heard of J. Augustus Wade or Thomas Dunn English. Very often, however, the lines that survive are of high literary value. Theodore O'Hara, soldier of fortune, wrote:

On fame's eternal camping ground
Their silent tents are spread,
And glory guards with solemn round
The bivouac of the dead.

By these four lines he won for himself admission to the eternal camping ground of poetry.

William Knox, a Scotch versifier (1789-1825), owes his fragmentary survival not so much to any great poetic merit in his mortuary couplets as to the indorsement of Abraham Lincoln, who loved to repeat:

Oh, why should the spirit of mortal be proud?
Like a fast flitting meteor, a fast flying cloud,
A flash of the lightning, a break of the wave,
He passes from life to rest in the grave.
—Philadelphia Ledger.

SAVAGE DISCIPLINE.

The Way Unruly Indian Boys Were Punished in Former Days.

My grandmother had twelve children, and one uncle undertook to teach me the art of worship. He used to lead me to the sandbanks of the Missouri river, where he would set fire to a pile of driftwood, and then, taking me by the hand, sing sacred songs to the fire and river. In the meantime he threw into them offerings of tobacco, red feathers, and sometimes oak twigs. I never knew the meaning of these offerings, but I always felt that some living thing actuated both the fire and the river.

Another uncle came to visit us periodically, and every time he came my brother or I suffered at his hands. Sometimes he would rush to the spring, carrying me horizontally under his arm and would plunge my head into the water until I almost suffocated.

His common form of discipline was to let me hang by my hands on the cross poles of the wigwam until my arms ached. My body writhed before I dropped. This uncle seemed to like best to command my older brother to tie my hands and feet with a rope. Then he would order me to resist—an ordeal that would make us both cry. In the winter he would also sometimes roll us in snow naked.

The punishment of Indian children is usually in the hands of some uncle rather than the parents. Our punishments were inflicted generally because we had disobeyed grandmother by failing to get wood at evening, had resisted fasting, had fought some Indian boys or had cried without sufficient cause.—Southern Workmen.

Quinine Not a Preventive.

Dr. E. Halford Ross in a letter to the London Lancet ridicules the attempt to prevent malaria by administering quinine. This cures malaria, but does not prevent it, just as diphtheria is cured with antitoxin, but not prevented. He cites the utter failure of five years of quinine administration to prevent malaria in Egypt and of the marked reduction in the disease that immediately followed the enforcement of anti-mosquito measures.

Public Streets.

Under the Roman-Dutch civil law the title to a public street was in the sovereign, and this rule obtained in New Netherlands until the country now comprising New York city was taken over by the English in 1664.

The English common law, on the other hand, left the title to a public street in the owner of the adjacent land, with only "the right of passage for the king and his people."—New York Times.

HIGH COST OF FOOD PRODUCTS

After an earnest and careful investigation in this State relative to the high cost of food products—the necessities of life—the basic cause can be placed upon the fact that the farmers of Kentucky during 1916 failed to plant and produce a sufficient amount of food products, not alone to supply the local demand but an inadequate amount for their own family consumption, and are today buyers in the open market for such. The citizens of the cities and towns are not expected and can not plant and produce these necessities, thus relying upon the farmers, and when both country and city people become competitive buyers in the open market for these products, it is no wonder that prices soar to the present unreasonable proportions. The first duty the farmer owes to his family is the production of a sufficient amount of food products to sustain and feed the members of that household. This being done they are independent. Then conserve the products at hand. At this time there are many efforts being put forth to teach the need and advantage of conservation of home products. It is done through organized work, through bulletins and through teaching and fortunate is the farmer who has learned this lesson of "production and conservation." In this way he will be surprised to find to what an extent this larger production and caring for the surplus product will mean in money in his pocket and sustenance to his fellow beings.

It is for this reason that I call upon the farmers of Kentucky to materially increase their planting, this year, so that a surplus may accrue which when placed upon the market will reduce the extremely high cost of living and drive penury and want from the many hungry starving families of this Commonwealth.

Sincerely,
MAT S. COHEN,
Commissioner of Agriculture.

Eph Thompson, a white man, aged twenty-eight years, arrested Thursday in Greenville by United States Deputy Marshall Joe Jackson, was arraigned before United States Commissioner C. W. HANDS OF LITTLE GIRL CUT OFF

By Brutal Parent Because She Had Thrown Pay Check Into Fire—Shock Kills Mother.

Allentown, Penn., March 3.—Wasael Warvolosky became enraged at his little daughter today and cut off both of her hands because she threw his pay check into the fire. The loss of blood caused almost immediate death.

He brought home his railroad pay check, placed it upon the table and proceeded upstairs. His little daughter innocently put in into the stove.

The father returned to the room and, missing the check, asked the little girl what she had done with it. The child pointed toward the fire. At this the father became so angry that he took the girl outside to a chopping block where they killed chickens, and with an ax he chopped off both of her hands a little above the wrists.

The mother investigated. When she discovered what had been done she fell over dead from the shock. The brutal foreigner was taken into custody by the police authorities.

Mr. Moorman was County Clerk of Grayson county and for the last ten years has been cashier of a bank at Leitchfield.

Mr. Revill was re-appointed for his second term, but resigned to become representative in Kentucky and Southern Indiana for the National Bank of Commerce in New York.

WHY NOT ORGANIZE

A BRASS BAND?

We often think of the famous band that once was organized in Madisonville and a band that every citizen was proud of. It was known all over the State. It made music at all of the Great Hopkins County Fairs in years gone by and was in demand all summer at other points. Why can't we organize another? Look at Morton's Gap and White Plains. Both of these towns have as good bands as can be found anywhere in the country.

They are making more reputation for their community than any other one thing possible. When the Shriners had their ceremonial here on the 22d of February, the Morton's Gap band was here to make music and compliments could be heard on all sides. It is a fine asset for any community. [Madisonville Hustler.]

And why can't Hartford get her musical talent together and organize a band for our little city? As the Hustler says, brass bands make more reputation for a community than anything else possible.

LIGHTNING PLAYS PRANK.

During the rain storm last Friday morning, lightning played an unusual prank at the home of W. M. Cooper, the section foreman at St. Mary's. The roof of Mr. Cooper's residence was struck and considerably damaged, setting fire to a pair of lace curtains in an upstairs room. A hole two feet square was torn in the roof, and one in the end of the house. The bolt, passing down the house, tore a piece out of a linoleum in the sitting room. Mr. Cooper, who was sitting before the grate, was not shocked, nor were other members of the family who were in the room at the time. [Lebanon Enterprise.]

THE THRICE-A-WEEK EDITION OF THE NEW YORK WORLD.

Practically a daily at the price of a weekly. No other newspaper in the world gives so much at so low a price.

The value and need of a newspaper in the household was never greater than at the present time. The great war in Europe is now half-way into its third year, and whether peace be at hand or yet be far off, it and the events to follow it are sure to be of absorbing interest for many months to come.

These are world-shaking affairs, in which the United States, willing or unwilling, is compelled to take a part. No intelligent person can ignore such issues. The Thrice-A-Week World's regular subscription price is only $1.00 per year, and this pays for 156 papers. We offer this unequalled newspaper and The Hartford Herald together for one year $1.65.

The regular subscription price of the two papers is $2.00.

SOME SNAKE STORY.

For several months Edward Van Warren has had a cough. Friends told him he had a "frog" in his throat. His health declined. The cough grew worse. While chopping wood, he was seized with a violent coughing spell, and up came—Not a frog, but a black snake as long as a lead pencil and about as thick. [Gloversville (N. Y.) Cor. New York World.]

LETTER FROM FLORIDA.

Jacksonville, Fla., March 10, 1917. The Hartford Herald, Hartford, Ky.:—Spending the winter in the land of flowers I have been a reader of The Herald for a number of years. I will write a few lines for the readers of The Herald and my many friends in old Ohio county.

I left Beaver Dam last January for Florida for the winter. I first stopped at Pensacola, Fla., as I had old friends there. Pensacola is a city of 30,000 population and is a very fine city—has very fine and modern buildings and a very fine hotel—the San Carlos, also has fine view of Pensacola Bay which is about nine miles wide and twenty miles long and is a fine fishing place, and about 1,000 tourists there this winter.

From there I went to Jacksonville which is the largest city in the State—has a population of about 100,000 and is one of the finest cities in the State. There is a large number of tourists here and they all seem to be well pleased. They meet in the parks and pass jokes and have a good time. The city band has two concerts in the park each day free to every person.

Jacksonville is situated on St. John river about twenty miles from the Atlantic ocean and has a deep water way. The ships from the ocean come up here and take passengers and freight. I went to South Jacksonville and there went to the ostrich farm where there is quite a lot of them. The keeper hitched one of them to a buggy and drove it around the race track and then rode it which was quite a treat to see. There is also an Alligator farm and show, went through it and saw them perform. Some are very large—said to weigh 1,400 pounds. Also a lot of wild animals there, lions, tigers, etc.

After staying here some time I went on to Plant City and there is located the largest phosphate mines in the United States and a great shipping point—then went to Tampa, Fla. There I found a great many tourists and they were all having a good time. In the parks are all kinds of games and the tourists are pitching horse shoes and playing croquet and checkers. Tampa is a city of 60,000 people and situated on Tampa Bay about forty miles from the Gulf of Mexico, has a ship line and some very large ships come up there. There are some very fine buildings here—the post-office is a fine house and a fine City Hall, where the tourists register.

From there I went to St. Petersburg, about 30 miles south of Tampa and a city of 25,000 inhabitants, and claim to have 38,000 tourists beautiful city—has such fine and very broad streets and has the finest parks in the South and has all kinds of announcements and has seats all over town to rest and have a good time, and the parks are filled with tourists from all parts of the United States and Canada.

St. Petersburg has the finest fishing I have ever seen—has a lot of small boats for hire and our party went out in the Gulf and caught some fine fish, the largest one weighed fifteen pounds. It was caught by a lady and such a time as she had with it, and on our return the engine stopped and we were out of sight of land or craft and we began to feel like we would love to be back on land, but after we had drifted for about one hour the engineer got the boat to go.

I went from here to Miami, about 200 miles south and find one of the prettiest cities I have seen in Florida, and all kinds of tropical fruits grow there. I found oranges, Bananas, grape fruit, pine apple, coconuts and all kinds of fruit and everything was growing and in bloom and the weather at summer heat. Winter is unknown there.

Then I come back to St. Augustine, said to be the oldest town in Florida. Some old relics of passed ages and some very amusing things to look at, but the city is fine and one of the cleanest cities I visited.

I come from there back to Jacksonville.

Very truly,
T. C. PIRTELE.

BELATED SNAKE STORY.

(Which is true)

Mr. S. L. Richeson was in to add his name to The Herald's subscription list Saturday, and informed the editor that he had a good story for us last summer, but failed to turn it in. We asked him what it was, and here it is:

While working in his field he spied a chicken snake basking in the sun. He secured his shotgun and shot the snake. Upon examination he found nine guinea eggs were in the snake's stomach. Two of the eggs were broken by the shot, and the other seven were picked up, dried by Mr. Richeson and set, and three of them were fertile and hatched.

The snake was even feet, three inches long, the largest Mr. Richeson says he ever saw.

"HEY," THERE!!

That's what the officer said to Paul Carter, colored, who is said to have stolen six bales of hay from Mr. J. W. Wilson. But Carter heeded not, and "hot-footed" it on horseback to parts unknown, and the last seen of him he was "burning the wind" on the nag that was to fill up on the hay "hooked" from Mr. Wilson.

Saves Eggs

Royal Baking Powder makes it possible to produce appetizing and wholesome cakes, muffins, cornbread, etc., with fewer eggs than are usually required.

In many recipes the number of eggs may be reduced and excellent results obtained by adding an additional quantity of Royal Baking Powder, about a teaspoon, for each egg omitted. The following tested recipe is a practical illustration:

SPONGE CAKE

1 cup sugar
½ cup water
3 eggs
2 teaspoons Royal Baking Powder
1 cup flour
1 teaspoon salt
½ cup cold water
1 teaspoon flavoring

DIRECTIONS:—Beat sugar and water until syrup spins a thread and add to the stiffly beaten whites of eggs, beating until the mixture is cold. Beat together three times the flour, salt and baking powder; beat yolks of eggs until thick; add a little at a time flour mixture and egg yolks alternately to white of egg mixture, stirring after each addition. Add ½ cup cold water and flavoring. Mix lightly and bake in moderate oven one hour.

The old method called for 6 eggs and no baking powder
